

Lumen Political Contributions Report

January 1, 2021 through June 30, 2021

At Lumen, we are committed to advocating for public policy solutions that best serve our customers, our employees, shareholders, and the communities we serve. Federal, state and local policymakers make critical decisions that directly affect our ability to invest in our network and deliver transformational digital services to enterprise, government and mass-market customers.

Our active participation in the political process is essential to ensure that we have a voice in those decisions. Electing business-minded policymakers who understand Lumen's role in delivering the fastest, most secure services to customers and communities is critical to maintaining a competitive operating environment.

Lumen participates in the political process in several ways, including educating individuals about the real-world impacts of policy decisions; political giving through employee-funded federal and state political action committees (PACs); corporate political giving where permitted; and membership in trade associations that help advance our overall business objectives.

Lumen also values transparency in this process and appreciates the need for disclosure of our political activity to promote ethical corporate governance and confidence in the democratic process. The company's corporate political contributions and those of its political action committees are disclosed in accordance with applicable federal and state campaign finance laws, and this Political Contributions Report contains additional information which we disclose voluntarily.

We file quarterly reports with the U.S. House and Senate regarding our U.S. federal lobbying activities, as well as mid-year and year-end reports regarding our U.S. federal political contributions. These reports are available by searching for "Lumen Technologies, Inc" as a "Registrant" on the U.S. Senate's website:

http://www.senate.gov/legislative/Public_Disclosure/LDA_reports.htm.

We also file periodic reports, in accordance with applicable state law, regarding our State Political Action Committee contributions, with State Ethics Commissions or their equivalent organizations.

Core Principles for Participation

Lumen's participation in the political process is guided by a set of core principles that govern our corporate policies on lobbying, political spending and general engagement in the process.

- Lumen supports public policies that empower our business operations, promote competition, and are in the best long-term interest for our customers, employees and shareholders.
- Political contributions by Lumen do not reflect the interests of individual directors, officers or employees.
- Lumen does not make political contributions based upon party affiliation.

- No campaign contribution will be given in anticipation of, in recognition of, or in return for an official act.
 - Lumen will not make political contributions for the purpose of influencing or attempting to influence the award of business to the company.
 - Lumen adheres to all federal, state and local laws and regulations governing the political process and has established internal policies, personnel and procedures to ensure compliance with these requirements.

Political Action Committee Contributions

Lumen has established voluntary, nonpartisan employee-funded political action committees (“PACs”) that accept contributions from eligible employees and make expenditures to support candidates for elected office. These employee PACs allow eligible employees, as defined by federal and state law, to pool their resources to support candidates for office who generally, but not always, support the public policies supported by the company.

The Lumen Technologies, Inc. Political Action Committee (“Lumen PAC”) is a federal political action committee, registered and monitored by the Federal Election Commission, established to encourage participation by eligible employees in the political process, and to make contributions to qualified candidates for public office.

The Lumen PAC’s disbursement of funds is made in accordance with a budget, and the same contribution criteria identified in the “Core Principles for Participation” section above are considered in determining Lumen PAC disbursements. Throughout the year, members of the company’s Public Policy organization and associate PAC members offer recommendations for Lumen PAC disbursements. Lumen PAC contributions are approved by the Lumen PAC’s Board of Trustees, which is comprised of management employees from various Lumen business units and management levels within the company.

The Lumen PAC operates pursuant to all relevant state and federal laws and complies with all public disclosure requirements. Information about the Lumen PAC’s contributions may be found on the Federal Election Commission’s website, www.fec.gov.

Lumen also operates 8 separate state employee PACs, and one employee conduit fund which are funded by a combination of voluntary employee contributions, or transfers from the Lumen PAC.

Corporate Political Contributions

Lumen makes direct contributions to support certain state candidates, political parties, political action committees, and ballot measures in those states where such corporate contributions are allowed by law and may make in-kind contributions, such as hosting a reception and paying expenses associated with the event.

Each year, the company's Board of Directors reviews and approves a maximum limit on the aggregate amount of corporate political contributions that may be made, and authorizes only political contributions that are permitted by, and in strict compliance with, applicable law. Throughout the year, members of the company's Public Policy organization make recommendations for corporate contributions. The Senior Vice President, Public Policy and Government Affairs must approve each corporate contribution. Lumen does not make corporate political contributions to candidates for federal office.

Trade Association Memberships and Related Engagements

Like most major corporations, Lumen is a member of a number of national and state industry and business trade associations (organized under section 501(c)(6) of the Internal Revenue Code) to help advance our public policy agenda and related business goals. Lumen believes that membership in these associations is generally consistent with the company's interests and plays a valuable role in bringing a collective voice to the political process. Lumen also understands that not all members of an association will come to agreement on every issue. Even when Lumen does not share the view of one of these associations, we still believe that membership is worthwhile because these associations encourage dialogue and help to move the industry to a consensus on important policy issues. However, Lumen does take these situations into consideration when determining annual membership. Payments to industry and business trade associations are subject to the same criteria listed in the "Core Principles for Participation" section above.

Lumen has a rigorous approval process for contributions to industry and business trade associations and similar organizations (for example, 527 groups, 501(c)(4) groups, and other similar tax-exempt organizations). Each proposed contribution must be approved by the Senior Vice President, Public Policy and Government Affairs.

Lobbying Activities

Lumen engages in lobbying activities to advocate our position on public policy, business and tax issues with elected officials and others in federal and state government. These are issues that affect our company, our employees, shareholders and, most importantly, our customers. The company's Senior Vice President, Public Policy and Government Affairs has oversight of all lobbying activities and expenditures. Other members of the company's Public Policy organization involved with lobbying include the Vice Presidents, Regional Regulatory and Legislative Affairs personnel and their respective direct reports.

Lumen complies with all disclosure requirements as prescribed by state and federal law. Lumen employees who are registered as lobbyists on behalf of the Company must also comply with company procedures for tracking and reporting activities and related expenses involving dealings with public officials and employees. Lumen lobbyists also are required to behave in a manner that meets or exceeds generally accepted standards of conduct of the profession. In their dealings with public officials and employees, all Lumen employees are required to comply with applicable federal and state laws, as well as the Company's policies on political activities, lobbying, and the exchange of business courtesies such as gifts, meals and entertainment.

Management and Oversight

Lumen values responsible corporate governance and participates in the political process to formulate policies that benefit our employees, customers, shareholders, and the communities we serve. In making political contributions, Lumen is committed to complying with laws and regulations governing the political process including campaign finance and disclosure rules.

Management of Lumen's participation in the political process is the responsibility of the Senior Vice President, Public Policy and Government Affairs. This position reports directly to Lumen's Executive Vice President, General Counsel & Secretary.

Public policy updates are provided periodically to Lumen's Board of Directors and/or its designated board committees, including periodic reviews of the company's political strategy, contributions and activities. The risks associated with political and lobbying activities are managed in accordance with the company's enterprise risk management framework. In that regard, the Board of Directors and/or its designated board committees oversee compliance with the Company's policies and procedures regarding political contributions and activities.

In addition, the company's Internal Audit personnel and Corporate Ethics and Compliance Department assess the risk related to political activities, including spending, in connection with the company's annual risk assessment process.
